BULL FLOOR LAMP

The Bull lamp is a sculptural lamp, inspired by the characteristic use of animal pictures in Danish Modernism from 1940s to 1960s. The lamp is named after its bull like lampshades of opal glass, which gives a smooth light scattering and a characteristic expression.

Bull consists of an unpolished grey marble base, complimented by a lamp arm in oxidized aluminum and covered by spun cognac leather. The upper parts of the lamp are also made from oxidized aluminum, creating a beautiful contrast between the textured metal surface and the smooth translucent opal glass.

The interaction between the many exquisite materials creates a refined expression, which makes the Bull lamps more than just a light source.
